SOCCER TEAM LOSES

DEFEATED BY MOORESTOWN BY
SCORE OF 2 TO 1

The soccer team lost to Moorestown on Saturday afternoon by the score of two goals to one. Walton field, on which the game was played, was very icy in spots, but the playing of both teams was very good in spite of this handicap. Things were fairly even during the first half, and each team had about as many shots as the other, but the college forwards were unable to score, while the visitors managed to put one through by clever passing. In the second half, things went Haverford's way much more. The ball was continually in Moorestown's half of the field, and a number of goals were prevented by the excellent work of F. Stokes. Only once did Haverford score, on a shot by Downing from close to the goal. Moorestown scored again during this period, after Furness had taken the ball all the way down the field alone.

The college forwards played remarkably well. They gave as good an exhibition of passing as has been seen for some time. They were playing against a remarkably strong set of backs, and this probably accounts for their inability to score more often. The Haverford backs, on the other hand, were hardly up to their usual standard. They seemed very unsure, and their kicks were seldom well placed, although Smith and Baily occasionally showed streaks of excellent playing.

For Moorestown, Furness, Sumner, and Nicholson played very well. The lineup:

CIVICS CLUB

On February 13th, Dr. Godard, Director of Psychological Research at the Vineland Institute for the Feeble-Minded and one of the best versed men in the Science of Eugenics, will address the Civics Club. He will speak on Feeble-Mindedness as a Social Menace. Those of us who had the pleasure of hearing Dr. Godard last year will appreciate what an interesting speaker Falconer has secured for this date.

Other lectures will be announced as they are arranged.

CIVICS CLUB LECTURE

MR. WALLACE SPEAKS ON INSURGENCY

Mr. R. D. Wallace, of Philadelphia, spoke to the Civics Club on Thursday, on "What It Means to Be an Insurgent." The insurgents, he explained, are different from mere destructive critics, who point out the evils of the present system of government without suggesting any remedies. Nor must they be confused with ordinary reformers, who see some definite evil and seek to overcome it, being content when this one purpose is accomplished: they wish to reform even the smallest detail of government, and start in with an entirely new system. This is by no means a new movement; in fact, he said, the leaders of the American Revolution might be called the first insurgents. It is steadily gaining ground, especially throughout the West. Among its leaders are Roosevelt, Wilson, La Follette and Pinchot. Insurgent governors have been elected in a number of states, and it seems most certain that our next president will be an insurgent. It also seems almost certain that, although there will not be a new political party formed, the present parties will be reorganized to some extent on the basis of liberalism and conservatism.

Afterwards, Mr. Wallace discussed the present political situation in response to questions from those present.

DR. SPIERS LECTURES

ADDRESSES SATURDAY CLUB

A function of more than usual interest to residents along the Main Line took place last Tuesday. The Saturday Club, one of the oldest women's clubs in Pennsylvania, held its annual New Year's reception at its home in Wayne. The club house was beautifully decorated and special praise was due to Mrs. Schoch, Mrs. Le Bouteillier, Mrs. Hoopes and Miss Josephine Scott for an arrangement which made of the reception hall a regular bower of fir and poinsettia. In a graceful speech, Mrs. Schoch, president of the club, drew attention to the fact that Dr. Spiers, the speaker of the evening, was originally a native of Wayne and welcomed the many guests who had gathered from so many different points to hear him. In his address, Dr. Spiers, professor at Haverford College, gave a lecture upon the Old Spanish Ballads. He described the origin of these ballads, read a translation of some of them, pointed out how they represent the soul of the Spanish people, and dwelt upon the fact that even to-day they still

DR. MUSTARD LECTURES

SPEAKS OF ROMAN RUINS IN SOUTHERN FRANCE.

Last Friday evening Dr. Wilfred P. Mustard, Professor of Latin at Johns Hopkins University, delivered a very interesting lecture in the Union on "Roman Ruins in Southern France." Dr. Mustard opened his address with a graceful allusion to his former connection with Haverford and then proceeded to take up his subject in detail. He was evidently thoroughly familiar with Southern France, and by dwelling upon the most interesting points only, he made his lecture very interesting throughout. The lecture was illustrated with some very excellent slides, many of them original.

Dr. Mustard explained that the Roman ruins in Southern France are remarkable for their excellent style and fine preservation as well as for the fact that there are such large numbers of them gathered together in a small area of less than forty square miles. These buildings are, some of them, of great magnificence and point to a time when the present Midi was a province of great wealth and power, the home and birthplace of Roman emperors.

The first important town considered by Dr. Mustard was Arles. Here the chief object of interest is the great Roman Amphitheater, which is in an excellent state of preservation. Here there is also an old Roman theater in which the Venus of Arles was found. This statue is a very fine one and has been placed in the Louvre. Another of the antiquities of this town is the old Roman cemetery.

At Nimes, which Dr. Mustard discussed next, there is situated another amphitheater which is much like the one at Arles, but in even better preservation, as the square pilasters and Doric columns which ornament the two tiers externally are still in good condition. The baths of this town, which have been converted into a public garden, are also very interesting, as is a peculiar square tower the exact purpose of which is unknown. Here too is found the famous "Maison Carrée," which is perhaps the finest Roman temple now in existence as well as one of the oldest. The preservation of this building is exceedingly remarkable.

Not far from Nimes is found the "Pont du Gar," a very fine Roman aqueduct. The portion now standing is in three tiers of tall arches spanning a little river. In speaking of this fine aqueduct, Dr. Mustard took occasion to correct the impression that Roman aqueducts in general were carried on arches throughout their entire length. This is

QUADRANGULAR GYM EXHIBITION

BISSINGER AND KRIMMEL DO
SENSATIONAL WORK

ALL FOUR TEAMS OF FIRST ORDER.

The Quadrangular Gymnastic Exhibition which took place in the Haverford College gymnasium last Saturday night was one of the most successful that has ever been held here. Besides the regular events which form part of every gymnastic contest, there were a number of special features in last Saturday's meet which were exceedingly interesting and which received their full measure of applause from the large audience which attended.

The best individual work of the evening was done by coach Bissinger, of New York University. His performance on the horizontal bar and the side horse was practically flawless and he also excelled on the parallels and rings. Another performer who did almost if not quite as well as coach Bissinger was Krimmel, last year's A. A. U. champion. He showed perfect form on all the apparatus and went through his various stunts with lots of energy.

The sensation of the evening was the high trapeze act given by Dyckman and Orbison, of Princeton. These two daring acrobats went through their feats on the slender trapeze, high above the floor, with an apparent recklessness which held their audience in a state of breathless interest. Another feature of the evening for which Princeton was responsible was a three high event in which Bissell, Lehman and Annin took part. This event proved to be one of the best of its kind which has ever been given on a Haverford floor. Another interesting feature was the club juggling of Baker and Baily, of Haverford.

The four teams taking part in the exhibition all made a good showing, although Princeton and New York University were perhaps a shade better than Penn and Haverford. The Haverford team did rather unexpectedly well considering that it was handicapped by the loss of Waples, who can always be counted upon to make good in several events. Wallerstein in particular showed good form on the horizontal bar and was at his best in tumbling.

This exhibition marked the first reappearance of the resurrected Glee and Mandolin Clubs and this added much to the attractiveness of the evening.

EDITORIAL

RECOGNITION

"Where is Haverford?" your friend asks you.

Wherefore the question? Things happen there. Professors give lectures both here and away. Other lecturers come to Haverford, and there are gathered together some of the best people of Philadelphia's most select suburbs. We have a theatrical club, sufficiently good to draw attention. We have successful athletic teams, surprisingly so in minor sports, as the trophy room will attest. Last year the Inter-Collegiate soccer cup came here. This year the Inter-Collegiate Gymnasium Meet will be held here. Annually three important University teams assemble here to exhibit their skill in gymnastics. Twice annually there is a similar meeting of the most important schools of Philadelphia, New York and vicinity, for gym and cricket. We say nothing of football, which receives some notice.

This is the answer, it seems to us, to the querulous complaint in Alumnus' article in our contemporary "School boys scorn Haverford" and other uncomplimentary remarks which rouse the Quaker blood. What we need is recognition. "Trite," you say, and perhaps you snicker. To obtain recognition in these advanced days we must have advertising. The old method of word of mouth is obsolete. The time-worn adage "the world is small," lacks perception. The world is really very large, but channels of personal commerce have been worn deep and smooth, and talky-talk recognition but travels in a circle. What we need is the "common, vulgar, modern, American" method (which is an inherent trait of all peoples) of boasting, but boasting on paper, newspaper. We have alumni who help out their Alma Mater continually on their own line of business. These are Haverfordians on the great journals of important cities in the East, New York, Philadelphia and others. They can carry this burden single-handed and spread the name and incontestible honor of Haverford abroad among the ignorant.

appear, not only on the Spanish peninsula, but wherever there are colonies of Spaniards or Portuguese. In Bulgaria, in Rhodes, in Morocco as well as in Peru, Chile and Brazil, they are found in the spinning parties of the women, in the children's games and in certain wedding services of the Jews.

The music of the evening was arranged to fit the lecture, being composed mainly of Spanish compositions. Mr. Beatty, the well-known bass, sang some very effective songs.

After the lecture the members of the club and their guests were given an opportunity to meet Dr. and Mrs. Spiers and Mr. Beatty.

SECOND TEAM MEETS DEFEAT
LOSES TO I. C. OF N. A. BY SCORE OF 1 TO 0

The second soccer team was defeated on Saturday afternoon by a team representing the Insurance Company of North America, by the score of 1 to 0. Merion field was in very poor condition, being covered with ice in many places. This hampered team work, although the playing of the visiting backs was excellent. The college men kept the ball in their opponent's half of the field during almost the entire game, yet they were unable to shoot and, in fact, hardly ever seriously threatened the goal. Only occasionally did the visiting team brace and take the ball to the other end of the field, and on one of these occasions, a Haverford man who was playing for them, in order to make up a full team, succeeded in scoring from directly in front of the goal.

The game was rather listless, although occasionally the college line would show bursts of speed. Five Haverford men had to play for the visitors, and all of these men distinguished themselves. Montgomery, at center forward, played very well. For the college, Nitobe, Thomas and Crowder played very well. The lineup:

DR. BABBITT SPEAKS

Last Saturday Dr. Babbitt read a paper at the annual meeting of the Eastern Section of the Otological, Laryngological, and Rhinological Society at the Newark Academy of Medicine. Dr. Babbitt's subject was "Nasal Polyps and Their Variation," and was based largely on interesting cases which have recently come under his personal observation.

The Music Study Club met last week and Joshua L. Bailly read an excellent paper.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Mr. Irvin E. Deer, Student Secretary of the State Y. M. C. A., spent last Saturday and Sunday at Haverford. On Saturday night he met the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet and presented the details of the Students' Conference to be held next Spring.

On Sunday afternoon Mr. Deer went over to the Coopertown Sunday School and gave a short address there.

In the evening at 6.30 he spoke to the boys at Haverford School.

At 7.45 he gave an extremely interesting and inspiring address at the Preston Reading Room.

CIVICS CLUB

Next Thursday evening at eight o'clock Doctor David Wilbur Horn, the Consulting Chemist of the Board of Health of Lower Merion Township, will deliver a lecture in the Union. His subject will be a vital one to everybody: "The Problem of Pure Water and the Relation of Pure Water to Public Health." The lecture will be illustrated and promises to be of the greatest interest. All are invited.

CAP AND BELLS

The Glee and Mandolin Clubs of the "Cap and Bells" made their first public appearance on Saturday night at the gym meet. Both clubs did well despite the fact that their season has not formally opened. Much credit is due to their leaders, Falconer, '12, and Porter, '13, since the task of reviewing these institutions after a lapse of practically two years has been no easy one. Lathem, '12, as accompanist for both clubs, has proved himself invaluable. Next Saturday a double quartet of the Glee Club will assist in the entertainment of the alumni at their annual banquet. Froelicher, '12, manager of the clubs, has a schedule of concerts for February and March well under way. There will probably be two joint concerts with other colleges, besides the annual concert and dance at the Merion Cricket Club and the usual assistance rendered at the gym meets.

CHESS CLUB

The chess team will play a ten-board match to-night with a team representing the Philadelphia Public Schools. This match should be a close and interesting one, although one or two of our players will not be able to take part in it.

The Philadelphia Chess Club League has disbanded. In the series played before the dissolution of the league our team lost one match, drew one, and won three, the last all by default.

not the case, as the larger portion of them was always under ground.

Dr. Mustard next spoke briefly of Avignon and the Palace of the Popes, now used as a barracks, and then proceeded to tell of Orange, from which town the Princes of Orange took their name. The chief object of interest there is the Roman Theater, which is a truly splendid building. It has been made a national monument by the French Government and is being restored. A number of interesting Greek plays have been given here by the Comedie Française. The triumphal arch in the outskirts of the town is also in very good condition.

Dr. Mustard's lecture as a whole was comprehensive, clear, and interesting, giving an excellent idea of the Roman ruins in Southern France.

MR. CHAILL AT HAVERFORD

IS PROMOTING AN INTERNATIONAL SOCCER ASSOCIATION

Mr. Thomas W. Chaill, associate editor of Spaulding's Soccer Guide, paid a visit to Haverford on Saturday afternoon, in the interest of the International Soccer Association. There are eighteen countries represented in this league, including all the important European nations, but there are no American representatives. Mr. Chaill was enthusiastic in his praise of Dr. Babbitt, for, he said, he has done more for soccer in America than any other ten men. He went on to say that Mr. Dalton, captain of the Annapolis football team, and Lieutenant Lanning, director of athletics there, are very much in favor of soccer and expressed the hope that in two years' time there will be a team on every United States battleship which will play teams at different ports of call.

Mr. Chaill holds that the best way to give the game impetus is to start it in schools and colleges, and with this end in view he is working to get into touch with the N. C. A. A. He proposes that soccer shall in no way interfere with regular football and therefore hopes great things from the alliance.

MANAGERIAL ELECTION

In the recent elections for assistant managers made necessary by the new constitution, Tatnall was chosen assistant track manager, Hall assistant cricket manager, and Gifford assistant gym manager.

The new football sweaters have appeared and present a very decorative effect upon our campus.

HAVERFORD COLLEGE ANNUAL INTER-CLASS GYM-NASTIC MEET

SENIORS WIN GYM MEET JUNIORS GET SECOND IN INTER-CLASS CONTEST.

The Gym season began in earnest last Monday with the annual Inter-Class Meet, which was won by the Seniors. The first half of the meet was very close and exciting, finally resulting in a tie between the two upper classes, neither of the lower classes scoring a point. There was some good work done, Wallerstein's all-around performance being especially noteworthy, but the absence of Waples left a hole in one or two events and was an overwhelming loss to the Sophomores. The surprise of the evening was the winning of the club-swinging event by Baker, '13.

The second part of the contest was given over exclusively to novice events, in which the Seniors excelled. Latham, '12, was the novice star, as he won four first places in excellent form.

Burglary Insurance

Records show that in the large cities and suburbs there are four times as many burglaries as there are fires. We issue the broadest Burglary Policy written. It is free from all technicalities and many of the restrictions of other policies. The cost is little and the protection great. We would be glad to call and explain.
