TRINITY WINS FROM HAVERFORD

SIXTH GAME STRAIGHT FOR HARTFORD TEAM

Haverford lost another on Saturday to Trinity, up at Hartford, by the score of 32 to 0. This makes the sixth straight victory for our Hartford rivals.

The team, however, had very little to be ashamed of. Trinity has always had a good team, and is just as good, if not better, than ever before. True, our fellows were entirely asleep during the first quarter, when three touchdowns were scored against them, but later they began to play up to their real ability, and in the last three quarters Trinity only scored twice. Most of the gains were made by Hudson, who is one of the best backs in the country. He was on Walter Camp's second All-American team last year, and this year stands a very good chance of being chosen on the first. In addition to the fact that he weighs two hundred and fifteen pounds, he is the fastest man on the Trinity team, making him extremely hard to stop. Although the tackling in general was better than ever before during this season, most of our men were entirely unable to stop Hudson. The notable exception to this rule was Porter, who time and again took the big back off his feet as though he was a member of the scrub. Hudson were used by our opponents on play after play, and at last was forced to retire from sheer exhaustion. After his removal there was very little difference between the teams.

Haverford kicked off to Trinity, and the home team started a steady march for the goal. Time and again Hudson and Lawler smashed our line for substantial gains and aided by a penalty the ball was placed on our two-yard line, from where Hudson easily carried it over. Kinney kicked the goal. The score was made in less than five minutes, without the ball once changing hands. Tatnall kicked off to Hudson, who was downed without much gain, and on the next play Sage kicked to Carey, who was downed on our eight-yard line. Our men were unable to gain, and Porter was forced to punt. A forward pass from Sage to J. B. Moore landed the ball on our four-yard line, and here our men took a stubborn stand, holding the powerful Trinity backs for three downs. On the last down Hudson took the ball over again. Tatnall again kicked off to Castator, and again the home team gained through our line at will. Almost every run netted nine or ten yards. At last, on a wide end run, Lawler carried the ball over at the extreme corner of the field. The kick-out was missed, and the chance to kick a goal lost. The quarter ended with the ball in Haverford's possession on her own forty-yard line, with a score of 19 to 0 against her.

The second quarter was rather more encouraging than the first. The gains of our opponents were much shorter, and several first downs were made by our men. Only once did Trinity score, when Hudson intercepted a forward pass and ran forty yards for a touchdown, throwing off several Haverford men who attempted to tackle him.

Haverford started out in the second half with a much different spirit from that with which they had begun the game; the tackling was greatly improved. Once Trinity placed the ball on our two-yard line, first down, but were unable to carry it over. Our offense was also much better. Our forward passes entirely fooled the Hartford team, and five first downs were secured by this means alone. Only twice during the half were they able to score. Once Hudson carried it over on a line plunge, and again toward the end of the game, Collett received a forward pass, and, with perfect interference from his whole team, carried the ball thirty yards for a touchdown.

Haverford was beaten, but not disgraced. Trinity certainly has a wonderful team, and our boys played better against them than in any game this year. Porter and Sangree, who played for the first time this year, strengthened the team wonderfully, both in the offense and defense. Porter kicked and made our forward passes, and was excellent in both these branches. As usual, our line was rather weak. This is a rather different state of affairs from the last two years, when the back-field was always weak, while the line could have stopped a locomotive. Perhaps it is a little disconcerting for a bunch of green men to face such a powerful player as Hudson, but we would like to remind them of the number of times that Mr. Cox, of Lehigh University, was found far back of his line after a play, under a pile of Haverford linemen. Still, it is not probable that any one nearly as good as Hudson will be met in the two remaining games, and with the rapid improvement shown by the team in the past two weeks, it looks as though we should have a good chance of winning.

Hudson, Lawler and Captain Collett played the best game for Trinity, while Porter and Carey excelled for Haverford. The interest of the stand was equally divided between the game and some new-found friends of Coach Keough,

SOCCER TEAM WINS

TAKES FIRST GAME OF SECOND DIVISION LEAGUE FROM BELFIELD

The soccer team, which was entered in the second division of the Cricket Club League simply to create an interest in the game earlier in the season, surprised itself, its opponents and all Haverford by winning from the Belfield Cricket Club at Belfield on Saturday by the score of 6 to 0. This showing is even more creditable when it is remembered that practice has only been going on a week, and that not a single member of last year's team played for the college.

Haverford kicked against the wind in the first half. The Belfield players were all much larger than the college men, but before long it was apparent that the visitors were getting the better of the argument. The wind proved a severe handicap, but despite this the ball was almost continually around Belfield's goal. Only four times did it even cross our line. The team work of the college players was excellent, and just before the close of the half, after a series of brilliant passes, Carey succeeded in making our first score.

In the second half, with the wind in our favor, the story was entirely different. The ball hardly reached our half of the field, and the home players were at times entirely bewildered by the brilliant passing of the forwards. During this half five goals were scored. Two of these fell to Maxwell, who scored each time from about the thirty-yard line. Hall added another, and Young put one through on a beautiful shot from the corner of the field. A number of corner kicks were awarded to Haverford, and J. Stokes played these extremely well, although none of them were good for scores.

The game on the whole was most encouraging. The new men all played with a snap and a dash that makes the prospects for a winning intercollegiate team look exceedingly bright. Carey and J. Stokes on the forward line both showed excellent ability, while Maxwell and Rountree in the backfield each put up a splendid game. L. Elkinton, at center half, was always in the right place, while A. Elkinton, by his long, sure kicks, kept the ball well out of our territory. Hall, Young and Miller, members of last year's second, team fully justified their choice for Saturday's game, and in fact, the only man whom we cannot justly praise is Gummere, at goal. His failure to shine can be partly accredited to the fact that not once during the

RUTGERS THIS WEEK

OLD RIVALS WILL BE MET ON SATURDAY IN LAST HOME GAME

Rutgers will be met on Saturday, at 2.30, on Walton Field, in the last home game of the season.

Particular interest is attached to this game. Rutgers is one of our oldest rivals. The two teams have met annually since 1896, and of the sixteen games played, Haverford has won ten, two have been ties, and the other four have been won by Rutgers. Time was when Rutgers was looked upon as a sure victory for Haverford, but that time is long since past; 1908 marked our last victory over our friends from New Brunswick. True, two years ago, after they had tied the Navy and beaten Swarthmore 21-0, they were unable to score against us, while we crossed their goal line and were brought back for some slight infraction of the rules. Last year they won, 10-6, but everyone felt that they could not have done it again.

Our team has been having rather hard luck lately, but is fast rounding into shape. All its more glaring faults are rapidly disappearing under Coach Keough's careful training, and the team which will face Rutgers is a very different one from the one which went up against Lehigh four weeks ago, although composed of very much the same players.

Last year, after starting out well, we went entirely to pieces, and were beaten by our old rivals, aided by circumstances over which we had very little control, and this year every man is keen to wipe out the disgrace of this defeat.

Now it is up to every Haverfordian undergraduate and alumnus, who possibly can, to be on Walton Field on Saturday, both for the team's sake and his own. Those who think our team is a bunch of dubs get another guess. The improvement in the execution of trick plays lately has been very encouraging, and those who fail to attend this last game will be missing a good thing. And on Saturday both the skeptics in college and our friends from the banks of the old Raritan are likely to be handed one of the biggest surprises they ever got.

In continuance of its taste in improving the grounds, the college has caused several dozen hardy shrubs to be set out between the library and infirmary. This ground has been much torp up for some time during the building of the new stack room, and the bushes will enhance the appearance of that section. We have here at Haverford a beautiful campus, of which we can be justly proud.

ELECTIONS

This year's presidential campaign, which was brought to a close last week, has stirred the whole college out of its usual attitude of self-contained quiet and has created here a lively interest in national legislation and politics. We hope that this interest will continue. Undergraduates have always had an interest in subjects of national importance; the majority of them have papers delivered to them daily, and all have ready access to the papers in the Union. Many have taken the economic courses as a means towards forming sound ideas on political matters, but the campaign has brought these matters home to us in such a way as to create enthusiasm and conviction. The opportunities of hearing the arguments in favor of the different parties have been exceptional and a large number of us have taken advantage of them whether or not the arguments met with our personal approval. Every one has been enthusiastic in the support of his candidate as a strong character and capable man. In spite of the fact that only a small percentage of our number could vote, none of those qualified stayed away from the polls.

The change of political parties for which the people of our nation voted on last Tuesday, necessarily means a change in the administrative policy of the government. As a nation we will watch the success or failure of this change.

We undergraduates have shown interest in this great change and we will without a doubt watch the outcome with the same interest. Should we not, however, show as much—in fact, more—interest in the working of our college administration? Let us at least give thought to such college matters and if opportunity offers, our most efficient services. Much as this new party in power may affect the country at large, it officers will not have nearly so much direct effect upon Haverford College as will the officers which we elect to carry on our different athletic and student government departments.

In the election of our officers we need to consider carefully the requirements which the office demands and not judge solely as to whether the candidate is a good fellow or not. And moreover, our nominating committees should realize more fully than they do the importance of placing men in line for our offices who will fill them to the best advantage. We hope that college questions will be given the same serious consideration lately given to politics: they would be sure to profit thereby.

PROSPECTS FOR A NEW GRANDSTAND

On Friday evening several of the alumni gathered at the college and had an informal dinner in the "small dining-room." Those present were: Mr. Joseph W. Sharpe, Jr., President Sharpless; Dr. Babbitt, Professor Collins and Robert E. Miller, '12. Mr. Bassett, of the firm of Baily & Bassett, Architects, was present also and presented some plans of a grandstand. The plans were thoroughly discussed, but nothing was definitely decided upon. Many details which will enter into the carrying out of such plans were also considered. The moving of the present cinder track and the construction of the necessary roads will probably be included in this plan. The new grandstand will occupy about the same position as the present grandstand, but the running track will probably be constructed in front of the new grandstand instead of behind it, as at present. Suggestions for a committee to carry out these plans were made and considered. It was decided that a meeting of this committee be held soon in order that definite work may be started. The meeting was highly enthusiastic and with the alumni named above interested in the matter it ought to be carried to completion in the near future.

During the past week both Sophomores and Freshmen have organized their football teams for the coming inter-class game, and signal practice has been held several times. Indications seem to point that the two teams will be very evenly matched, and a closely contested game should result.

THE POLITICAL DEBATE

On last Monday evening the Union was the scene of a lively and highly instructive debate on the three main political platforms. The debate showed the keen interest the college was taking in politics; the ability of the students to think clearly on political matters; and that we have a number of first-rate public speakers among us. The enthusiasm of the audience was evident from the loud applause which was given the various speakers.

All of the debaters were members of Prof. Kelsey's History IV class. They have been studying the various party platforms and numerous discussions have been held in the class-room, so that the speakers had given earnest study to their subject and were admirably fitted for the debate. Crowder and Webb, the two speakers on the Republican platform, were not in sympathy with Republican policies, but in spite of this fact they spoke and argued well. The debate in brief was as follows: Montgomery, the first speaker for the Progressives, told why the Progressives had left the Republicans at Chicago and formed a new party. He touched but lightly on the tariff. He also spoke of the importance of the trusts.

Crowder, for the Republicans, outlined the accomplishments of President Taft during his administration, and spoke of his safe and sane manner of handling political business.

Van Sickle expounded on the Democratic principles of tariff for revenue only.

Offermann, who was the second speaker for the Progressives, spoke on the commission system of handling political matters and in particular upon the regulation of the trusts by a commission.

Webb, for the Republicans, showed how panics had always followed reductions in the tariff.

Woosley explained the Democratic plan for the regulation of the trusts. He showed the dangers of the Progressive commission idea of trust regulation.

Each speaker was given a three-minute rebuttal. Woosley, a "dark horse" from the Senior class, proved by far the most convincing speaker of the evening. His eloquence was of an exceptionally high standard. Offermann and Montgomery also showed frequent bursts of eloquence.

A straw vote, taken after the debate, resulted as follows: For the Democrats, 30; Progressives, 21; Republicans, 7.

Dr. F. B. Gummere, Dr. Jones, Dr. Pratt, Arthur Thomas, and acted as judges. They gave first place to the Democratic speakers; second to the Progressives; and third to the Republicans.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Mr. Worth, of the Central Branch of the Y. M. C. A., spoke in the Union on Wednesday evening on Social Service. After explaining the work done by the societies of organized charities, and other organized charities, and other organizations, he proceeded to give us a number of examples, and closed by asking that if any one present felt that he could do any social work this winter, he would see him about it, either at the close of the meeting or at any other time.

Dr. Baker spoke at Preston on Sunday evening. He gave one of the best talks heard there in some time.

Miss Mary Windsor spoke to the Civics Club on Thursday evening on the subject of Woman's Suffrage. Almost the entire student body was present, and Miss Windsor held the attention of her audience till the very end. Through an error on our part, we are unable to publish any details of her talk in this number, but hope to give a full account in the next issue.

How in this world could a fellow invest money for Christmas presents to better advantage than in half a dozen or so of Crosman's calendars at sixty cents a piece and two for one dollar. The calendar is very artistic and contains thirteen handsome cuts of the campus. Seven of these were made especially for the calendar. One of the best engraving houses of Philadelphia is doing the work and they promise their best workmanship.—(Adv.)

The first meeting of the athletic cabinet, which has been postponed on account of the injuries to Longstreth, who is the chairman, will be held some time this week.

NOTES ON THE GAME

Remembering our experience of two years ago, when, after a limbering-up practice on Trinity's field, the home team's trainer assured us that our best trick play would be of no use to us, as he had seen it and would put his men wise, the Wesleyan field, at Middletown, was secured for the Friday afternoon practice, and the team journeyed to Hartford after supper. The fellows were placed in different parts of the building to sleep, and meals were secured at the different fraternity houses.

There was great joy around college last week when it was learned that Porter and Sangree would be able to play in the remaining games. Both are strong, experienced backs, and their absence has been greatly felt this year. If they had been in from the beginning of the season, the records of the games so far would probably have been different.

Porter was one of the strongest players on the team in his Freshman year. In his Sophomore year, he was injured in making the play that practically won the Lehigh game, and has not been out since, as he felt that his ankle was too weak to stand the strain. He has, however, been coaching the scrub and doing whatever else he could for the good of the team. He is a sure drop kicker, passes extremely well, and is a sure and hard tackler.

Sangree has been out of the game so far on account of conditions, but a petition signed by the entire student body touched the hearts of the faculty, and Sangree is again with us. Even while conditioned and when he had not a thought of being able to play again, he did not miss a single day of practice, but, playing on the scrub, pounded the varsity for all he was worth. He is the best line plunger we have had for years, and is one of the best men on the team in breaking up passes.

Carey, while twenty pounds lighter than any other man on the team, is one of the snappiest quarter-backs we have had for a long time. He has an excellent head, and handles punts faultlessly. As he is only seventeen years old, he has lots of time to grow and improve, and by Senior year should be one of the best men in that position that we have ever had.

Tatnall still continues to play his steady game at center. His passes are all sure and his defensive work excellent. He kicks off for us and does, or rather did, kick all goals after touchdowns. We hope he will have a chance to show his ability in this line in the near future.

Shipley has been playing an excellent game on the scrub lately, and has played at end during parts of both our last games. Although rather light, he is one of the best men on the squad in breaking up interference.

Thomas played a splendid game against Trinity. Until this game he threw all our forward passes, but now he is on the receiving end, where his speed will show to good effect whenever he gets away with one. He is the best man on the team in making interference, a branch in which we are decidedly weak. Although hurt on Saturday by a collision with one of our men, when both were trying for a pass, he played right through to the end of the game.

There has not been a single injury in the last three games. In practice, however, there have been two fairly bad injuries. Pharo, a substitute end, who always plays a good hard game, received a twisted knee, and Heaton, a big Freshman, who stood a good chance of making a guard position, chipped a cheek bone last week. Both, however, are coming along very well, and will be out and around this week.

Hires, who was so severely injured in the Lehigh game is making rapid strides toward recovery. He is able to be up and about, and expects to return to college very shortly.

In the absence of a home game, most of the fellows at college attended the Swarthmore-Lehigh game on Saturday. For once it was possible to watch Pazetti's beautiful running and Hoban's peerless line plunging with feelings of unmixed pleasure, while all who watched the wonderful passes and trick plays of the Swarthmore team felt that it would be inadvisable to schedule a game with Swarthmore for another year at least.

AN ERROR

In a former edition of the WEEKLY we made the statement, taken from the intercollegiate records, that Haverford and St. John's had met but once. This game took place in 1896 and resulted in a tie 10-10. An alumnus has since then called to our attention the fact the Haverford played St. John's on Founders Day, November 15, 1898, and defeated the Annapolis college by a score of 52-0. We are comforted to consider that this leaves Haverford considerably ahead of her military rival in the total number of points scored during the athletic relationship of the two colleges.

Burglary Insurance

Records show that in the large cities and suburbs there are four times as many burglaries as there are fires. We issue the broadest Burglary Policy written. It is free from all technicalities and many of the restrictions of other policies. The cost is little and the protection great. We would be glad to call and explain.
