THE 2020 ELECTION: A Comparison to BSL’s 1972 Boycott

PANELIST BIOS

HAVERFORD COLLEGE
MULTICULTURAL ALUMNI ACTION GROUP
Ghebre Selassie Mehreteab ‘72 is a senior adviser to foundations, financial institutions and developers in housing and community revitalization. He started his career at the Ford Foundation in 1981, served as AD of The New World Foundation and worked at several community-based organizations in Philadelphia. In 1989, he co-founded NHPF and developed it into a leading national nonprofit providing multi-family housing for low- and moderate-income families in the U.S. Former CEO of NHPF, Ghebre was a member of the Board for Douglas Emmett Inc. and currently serves on the Board of the Lockhart Companies (USVI). He is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, the Cosmos Club, and Sigma Pi Phi Epsilon Boulé. Ghebre earned his B.A. in 1972 and Doctorate in Humane Letters (honoris causa) in 2007, both from Haverford.
Jim Pabarue ’72 graduated from Haverford in 1972. After attending the University of Pennsylvania Law School, he practiced law in Philadelphia for 36 years. Jim has played an integral role in establishing an alumni presence in the Office of Multicultural Affairs at Haverford and continues to serve the College as one of the co-founders and inaugural co-chairs of MAAG.
Michael A. Davis ‘74 retired from the active practice of law after 40 years in large firm, corporate, nonprofit, and government practice. He served as chief counsel to the Pennsylvania Department of Education and as general counsel for the Philadelphia School District and School Reform Commission. He currently teaches law part-time as adjunct professor of law at University of Pennsylvania Carey Law School and serves as a board member for Research for Action.
Grady Lights, ’74 is retired from Septa’s Management Division. He is a patron of artists; an avid member of the Havertown Community Action Network’s (H-CAN), Art Advocacy Action Group, and a member of Emerging Art Leaders, Phila. Grady joined the Rufus Jones Society at his 45th Reunion and is a two-year attender of Haverford Monthly Meeting. He is Founder-Facilitator of The Civil Life Transforming, a conversation-advocacy initiative.
Juan Williams ‘76 is a former White House correspondent at the Washington Post, where he worked for over 21 years. He has also been a senior correspondent and talk show host at NPR and currently serves as a political analyst for Fox News and co-host of the daily news round table show The Five. Juan is the author of numerous bestselling and critically acclaimed books, received an Emmy for a documentary film series, and is a former member of the Haverford Board of Managers.
Ron Christie ‘91 is a media and political strategist. He is the founder and President of Christie Strategies LLC, an independent media and political strategy firm providing government relations, communications, and diversity consulting for a wide range of companies and organizations. He is a veteran senior advisor to both the White House and the Congress, and brings years of government relations and media experience.